DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1, 3-9, 11-16, 18, 20-22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by DeBusk ('128).

DeBusk discloses a surgical towel (see "surgical towel" in line 43 of col.2), comprising a sheet of woven fabric comprising at least one stitched hem (Figs.1-5), and at least one piece of x-ray detectable material enclosed in the hem (54 of Figs.1-5), the x-ray detectable material allowing indication of the surgical towel upon x-ray (see "can be identified through x-ray examination" in line 23 of col.6), wherein the x-ray detectable material comprises 60% BaSO₄ and 40% PVC (see "polyvinyl chloride filled with at least about 60%...barium sulfate" in lines 30-32 of col.4), wherein the sheet of woven fabric comprises cotton, synthetic material or a combination of these (see "cotton...or...combination" in lines 1-2 of col.4), wherein the sheet of woven fabric is single-ply (see "single" in line 1 of abstract), wherein the x-ray detectable material comprising shaped, coded, numbered, or identifying characteristics to identify an x-rayed object as a surgical towel (see "elongated...thread" in line 3 of abstract, also see "flat narrow ribbon" in line 39 of col.4), further comprising having four edges (Figs.1-5), at least one hem stitched in at least one of the four edges (Figs.1-5), a thread for stitching the at least one hem (Figs.1-5), at least one piece of x-ray detectable material enclosed in one of the at least one hem (Figs.1-5).

3. Claims 15, 19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by DeBusk ('517).

DeBusk discloses a surgical towel (see "surgical towel" in line 9 of col.2), comprising a sheet of fabric (Figs.1-7), and at least one piece of x-ray detectable material attached to the sheet of fabric (14 of Figs.1-7), wherein the one piece of x-ray detectable material is stitched or woven into or ironed on the sheet of fabric (see "into the weave pattern" in line 56 of col.2).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 2, 10, 17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over DeBusk ('128).

DeBusk, as described above, discloses all the features claimed except the thread being a different color than the fabric. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made, to have the thread being a different color than the fabric, because Applicant's specification states that "can be a different color" and "can be the same color" (see lines 20-21 of page 5). Thus, in Applicant's specification, a different color is not critical.

Conclusion

6. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

DeBusk ('781), Zachry, Schradig et al, Madden, Neubardt and Shannon are cited to show surgical towels.
